Increase in fishing effort but less poaching in no-take zones due to curfew.

Fish prices have generally fallen.

Catches are sold locally.

Tourism has stopped leading to lower demand for seafood.

Fishing generally continues, but fishers are making less money.

Government providing some financial support to fishers and hoping to procure solar dryers.

Most migrant fishers on the island of Songosongo have shifted to mainland.

Little tourism and export of seafood prior to crisis; local markets unaffected but curfew has stopped reef gleaning at night.

Price of sugar has increased.

Data collectors mostly still active.

Fishing generally continues, but fishers are making less money.

Fish prices have generally fallen.

Observations from field teams of COVID-19 crisis on fisheries in East Africa (see separate infographic)